AUTHOR OF “TAKE GOD AT HIS WORD”

BIO & HISTORY

One million books in print...4,000 churches helped... thousands of people becoming generous and cheerful givers...what's the common thread? The passion God put in Kregg Hood's heart to help His church.

Kregg has an earned doctorate in instructional communication from Texas Tech University in addition to master's degrees in missions and preaching. His undergrad majors were Bible, mathematics and biblical languages. Kregg's vision to help people grow in stewardship has benefitted the body of Christ greatly.

Kregg speaks at churches and conferences across the country and writes for many Christian media outlets, and also teaches graduate level Marketing and Public Relations courses at Evangel University as an adjunct professor.

When asked to sum up his purpose Kregg said,

“God's people are poised to really experience the impact of biblical and Holy Spirit-empowered truth about money. Our world needs God's wisdom as never before, and as we learn to better model the Lord's plan, we will be salt and light to millions. God is always on our side and He will always bless us when we trust Him and His promises.”

Kregg and his family make their home near Springfield, Missouri. He is available for speaking engagements and private consultation services for churches and pastors.
